

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for managing meeting information on meetings received from client terminals via a network includes a meeting manager that manages, upon receipt of the meeting information on 5 meetings from the client terminals, the meetings based on meeting registration information including the meeting information registered with associated meeting identification codes.